Total	59,692	100.0%	55,002	100.0%	-4,690	-7.9%

Note: Segment information in the previous fiscal year is provided only for reference because business segments were revised in the current fiscal year.

Summary

■ Electronic components: Sales down 5,382 million yen (-12.0%)

Lower production volume, slowing consumer spending and other effects of the March earthquake caused a drop in orders for semiconductors used in automobiles and consumer products, for EMS operations for amusement devices, and for other activities.

■ Information equipment: Sales up 830 million yen (+7.1%)

Sales in some product categories declined due to the earthquake. But orders were higher because of activities to increase sales of PCs, PC peripherals and other existing products, higher demand for products for conserving electricity, and orders for terrestrial digital TV broadcast tuners leading up to the July end of these broadcasts in Japan.

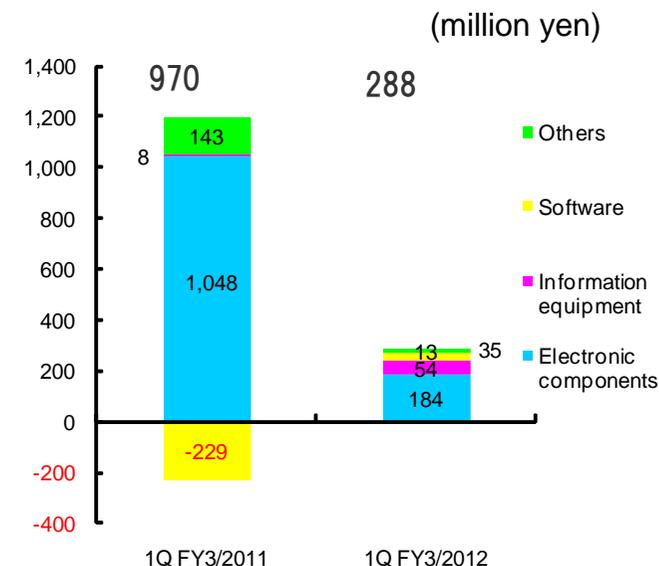

■ Others: Sales down 286 million yen (-11.1%)

Orders decreased mainly because of weak sales of golf products and a downturn in the electronic devices recycling business because of the earthquake.

Segment information (Operating income)

	(million yen)
	1Q FY3/2011	1Q FY3/2012	Change
Electronic components	1,048	184	-864

Others	143	13	-129
Total	971	288	-682

Note: Segment information in the previous fiscal year is provided only for reference because business segments were revised in the current fiscal year.

Summary

■ Electronic components

Operating income decreased 864 million yen mainly because of lower operating income in the EMS business in Japan as sales declined due to weak production activity and consumer spending following the earthquake.

■ Software

Operating income increased 264 million yen mainly because of higher sales of visual content using computer graphics and of game software.

■ Others

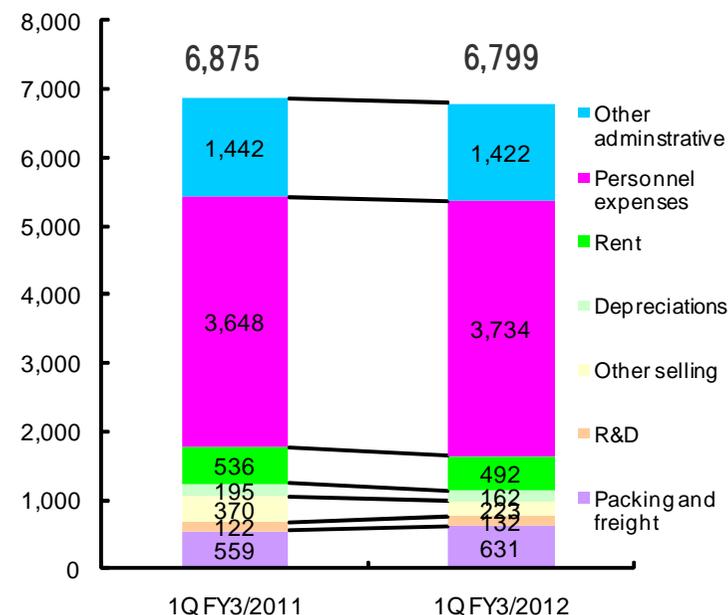

Operating income decreased 129 million yen mainly because of weak sales of golf products and a downturn in the electronic devices recycling business because of the earthquake.

Summary

■ Electronic components

A rebound in supplies of electronic components, semiconductors and other components is expected along with earthquake recovery progress and overseas EMS business volume is expected to grow. But a sales decline of 9,105 million yen (-5.3%) is forecast because of lower sales in the EMS business in Japan due to lower production volume and slowing consumer spending caused by the earthquake.

■ Information equipment

Up 4,155 million yen (+8.2%) because of growth in the volume of products handled due mainly to activities to increase sales of PCs, PC peripherals and other existing products and to the addition of new products.

■ Software

Up 2,469 million yen (+43.4%) because of higher sales of visual content and game software.

■ Others

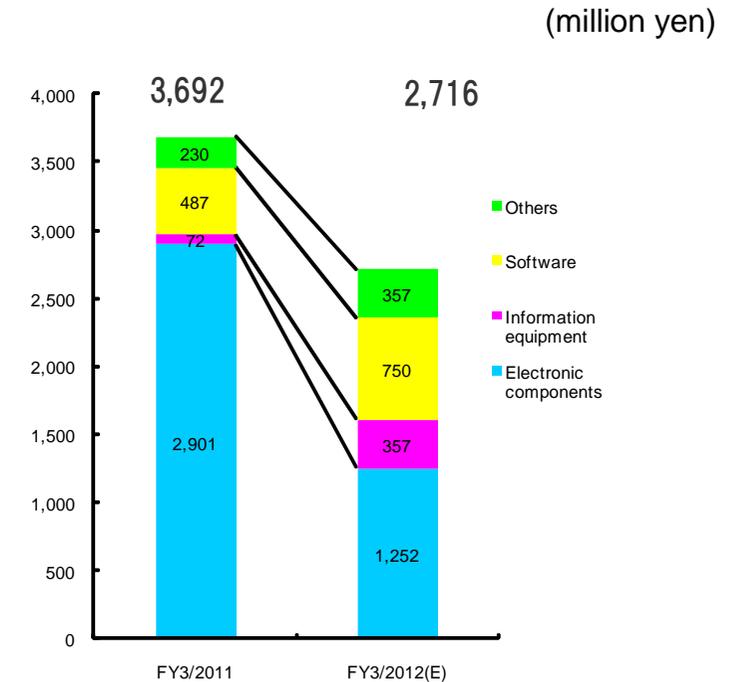

Up 2,532 million yen (+25.8%) because of growth in the recycling of amusement and electronics equipment associated with earthquake recovery activities.

Business initiatives for FY3/2012

Business Units

■ Development of Business Units (No.1)

Components Business Unit

The electronic component/semiconductor/module business
The foundation for operations of the KAGA ELECTRONICS Group

(KAGA ELECTRONICS, KAGA TECH, KAGA DEVICES, AD DEVICE, ADM, WORKBIT, KAGA (USA), KAGA DEVICES (H.K.), KAGA (DALIAN), KAGA (KOREA), KAGA (SINGAPORE), KAGA (TAIWAN))

■ Business initiatives

(1) Sell new products to major customers and add more suppliers

Procure goods from overseas and build a sales network in Japan to meet customers' diversifying needs and overcome increasingly heated competition. Conduct global activities that capitalize on KAGA's position as an independent corporate group. Capture business by creating added value, such as by developing semiconductors (microprocessors).

(2) Increase sales to companies in other countries

Started strengthening operations in past fiscal year to increase sales to companies based in China; plan to continue expanding these sales activities

(3) Start operations in emerging countries by forming alliances with major customers

Established KAGA DEVICES INDIA PVT LTD. in August 2011 to start business activities in India; moving forward with plans to start operations in Brazil and other emerging countries

(4) Further deepen ties among group companies to become a global organization

Pursue more synergies by creating centralized business units within the KAGA Group consisting of companies with the same types of operations

Use value-added businesses to target growing markets

■ Development of Business Units (No.2)

Manufacturing Business Unit

A manufacturing business that uses manufacturing and EMS capabilities to perform all steps from development and design to production for semi-finished and finished products

KAGA ELECTRONICS, KAGA COMPONENTS, KAGA (H.K.) ELECTRONICS, KAGA (SHANGHAI) ELECTRONICS, KAGA ELECTRONICS (THAILAND), KAGA (EUROPE) ELECTRONICS, DONGGUAN POWERTEK ELECTRONICS, KAGA COMPONENTS (MALAYSIA), KD TEC, KAGA TAXAN ELECTRONICS (SUZHOU)

■ Business initiatives

(1) Upgrade procurement = Implement centralized procurement strategy/Transferred businesses = Deepen ties within the group

Put the EMS business and power supply business (KAGA COMPONENTS) in the same business unit to cut costs by unifying the procurement of parts and materials, use factories more effectively and benefit from other synergies.

(2) Capitalize on business opportunities anywhere in the world/operate a manufacturing network able to immediately meet customers' diversifying needs

Receive more EMS orders from operations of Japanese companies in China, Thailand and other countries; expand manufacturing activities

Centralize manufacturing operations to make high-performance, high-quality products
